RICHARD CASE NAGELL
Double Agent

Richard Case Nagell, 65, a double agent who was the subject of the 1992 book "The Man Who Knew Too Much," was found dead of heart disease at his home in Los Angeles on Nov. 1. He was 65.

Dick Russell's book described Mr. Nagell's work for the CIA and Soviet spy networks and delved into his relationship with Lee Harvey Oswald.